Hey Micayla,

In a world where failing marriages and toxic relationships have become the norm, it's important to acknowledge how our relationships impact our wealth.

When we feel unseen and unheard in our relationships, it can be incredibly isolating and challenging to navigate. It's easy to feel like no one understands us or cares about what we're going through and this can feed into how we operate in the workplace, how we operate in our purpose, or show up in our day-to-day lives.

In the latest episode of the podcast, I had the pleasure of sitting down with Relationship Expert and Certified Marriage and Family Counselor, Love McPherson.

WITH PATRICE WASHINGTON

As we delved into the topic of relationships and wealth, a fascinating journey of discovery unfolded. Throughout our conversation, Love guided us through key discussion points, each unveiling a new facet of relationships:

✨ Honor & See Each Other: Foster a deep sense of connection by truly seeing and acknowledging the other party in the relationship. Whether it's a friendship, companionship, or romantic relationship, it's important for each side to feel seen.

✨ Addressing Generational Trauma: Explore the impact of past experiences on your relationships and work towards healing.

✨ Use Your Voice & Give Voice To Truth: Embrace your voice and speak your truth without apology.

✨ Don't Be Afraid To Talk About Sex: Within a romantic relationship, we should recognize the importance of intimacy and trust in building strong relationships. Create a safe place to engage in conversations that convey your desires and needs.

To anyone out there who feels unseen in their relationships, I want you to know that I see you.

I see your struggles and your pain, and I want you to know that you are not alone. The key to your healing is moving forward, forgiving yourself and embracing who you were created to be, flaws and all.

You are more than what you've allowed others to place a title on and you were created on purpose, for a purpose and with a purpose.
